

Title I Parent's Right to Know

The federal education law put in place by President Bush called "No Child Left Behind," requires that all parents in a Title I school be notified and given the opportunity to request information about the professional qualifications of classroom teachers instructing their child.

This information may include:

- 1) whether the teacher has met the state requirements for licensure and certification for the grade levels and subject matters in which the teacher provides instruction;
- 2) whether the teacher is under emergency or other provisional status through which state qualification or licensing criteria have been waived;
- 3) the college major and any other degree; and
- 4) whether the child is provided services by paraprofessionals, and if so, their qualifications.

If you are interested in this information, you may send your request to the building principal who will provide a response.

In addition, you will be provided timely notice if your child has been assigned or has been taught four or more weeks by a teacher who is not highly qualified to include long-term subs.